Awaken

Hey Gang,

Holy Shit Cain Zaid! (which is what I say instead of swearing these days). I hope you did not recall Personality that like I'm still recovering from the 2008 San Diego Comic Con! Man, what a blast—I've been going there for 21 years now and it's such fun to see old friends I only get to see there, and make all kinds of new ones. This year was extra special, so if you follow the "What's On My Mind" section of the website, you'll know already that a son on the 21st of July—right in the middle of the Con just already, it was a scheduled 2-section that I drove back to L.A. but but I really did! Only my son would decide to arrive during Comic Con—it's sure to be a sign of some kind... he'll either be a cartoonist or an ass murderer—or maybe both! How cool would that be—my son as an murdering cartoonist!

Shane Brocklyn Eastman is his name, and thanks to the superb care and kindness of our surrogate, Julie's sister, Kiki Thompson-Stan, he was 8 pounds (and changed) and 21 inches long when he was yanked in to the place. He's a good boy—eating, sleeping and peeing like a true Eastman. I'm sure I'll be letting the hell out of the website fans with him doing all kinds of stuff...

Ayuhoo—I want to give a shout out to Pam, Heidi, Kate, Veronica, Alex, Stacy, our friends at Golden Apple Comics, Chris, Beta like Isaac, and Lorenzo for helping us kick ass at the booth—can't wait to do it again next year—and as it turns out, Lorenzo Sperlonga is back on the cover once again for this issue! Thanks, buddy!

Two of my favorite artists making their first journey into our Gallery sections this month are the top-shelf talents of Gonzalo Galdino and Jaron van Lin. Nice work guys, glad to have you with us. While it seems to be pulling our website in nearly every paragraph in this month's note, KR has been adding classic Heavy Metal galleries just about every week—so go check them out and hang out with some old friends.

LWC featured along this month, as I am a huge fan of Stan & Vince—and by adding Mr. Delapain into the mix, "God Killer" is genius. Enjoy! And to kick off the short story section, my good friend Brad is back with his new, hot, hot "Tong Dancer" adventures—we're going to have to collect all these one day! We also needed to bring back Mr. Carbonelli and Señor Rojo for more short twisted tales from two of our fan favorites, as well as more mini yams from Potinski & Bartel, Achmerat and Sergio Koon. Top-shelf work, guys!

We can't help but sound out another wonderful issue with the ever-typically wonderful Karl Fekken and U.C. Ringenberg. Now this is where you're going to find me signing off as the baby monitor is telling me Shane Brocklyn is waking up for this 2:00 a.m. feeding and I'm on night duty tonight. I'll catch you in another month or so.

Kirk Eastman

Dear H.M.,

Dismiss it, dear old company. Thank you for an amazing poster in the latest H.M. I think "Sky Doll" has to be compared to the MCAL in future dates. It's an amazing, sweeping adventure with slick new graphics. I can't wait for the fourth chapter!

Julia

Dear Jeff,

Thank you "Sky Doll" Summer Special was a perfect of three books I had been after for quite some time and was thrilled when the French publisher agreed to let us run all three books in one massive issue. Written and illustrated by de-Dorcy artists—it's been a collection a lot of my artist buddies have enjoyed in its original French language version for a number of years. We glad we were the ones to bring it out here in the United States. I have heard no news on a fourth volume—but fuck it to hoping.

Sean Hill,

I must give H.M. the thumbs up for publishing "Borgia 42". The detail that went into the characters in "Borgia" is AMAZING! The social repression and preparations are wonderful. The theme and period of the story is very interesting. I can't wait to see what happens next! I wish I could have read "Borgia 41" but I'm a newspaper buyer and I must have missed it.

Portygrain

Dear Portygrain,

I couldn't agree more! I've always been a huge Monaco fan, but I thought the pre-"Borgia" work was a bit thin and looked rushed. I think it's really into this series and is spending the time he wants to bring it to life. I look forward to the next installment as well as all you guys.

Dear H.M.,

I have read the first three Heavy Metal editions of "Yu" and I have not seen any latest H.M. edition of "Yu" yet. There was supposed to be seven editions coming out of France.

Goat

Dear Scott,

This was a series I missed a bit and have jumped continuing the series for too long for other new series. I wanted to get in sooner like "Sky Doll" but think it is time to get back to getting it back in the schedule to think it up. First what I can tell about the volumes in the album, there is one more issue in the current story line and then there that are "Pre-Monaco" plot line—perhaps we'll back into running all of the three stories all in one "Special" issue like the 2008 Summer Special.

Dear H.M.,

Today, flipping through the last issue of "Comic Book Artist" in the corner shop, I saw an ad for books about several comics including HEAVY METAL, MCAL, MCAL, MCAL, the long-awaited official Heavy Metal Companion. The ad shows the cover of the book: a new illustration by Simon Bailey of a big city girl in the typical H.M. cover fashion. The title, Heavy Metal Metalurgy features the classic Heavy Metal logo, adding the letters LANCY to the right side of H.M. Double the cover, there's a little text explaining the contents of the book: it includes several interviews with the likes of Mankia, Druillet, Bailey and of course, Kevin Eastman, art galleries, a comprehensive index to all the issues, and obviously it talks about the history of the magazine and its origins in the French Metal H.M. It's described as the definitive companion book for Heavy Metal Magazine. The publishing date is late 2009. I did a search on the Internet but I didn't find anything. Hope! Sooooo!

Dear Sooooo!

"Metalurgy" has been interesting as we've been talking about with the "New Monkeys" publishers for quite a while, but they decided it was too early for their line of books and excellent books and magazines they are. I want to add but maybe they've changed their minds and haven't told us. Jeff: Gabe was putting it all together and it was looking good—I just needed a final word and the addition of a lot of art. Looks like it could be time to call John and see what's up and see if it can be put on track in completion. I'll keep you posted.

Dear H.M.,

Does anybody out there know how many different phone cards were made with the H.M. logo? I recently bought the two that Leifley has on his website and was wondering if there are any others? The first one is titled Simon Bailey Cover Art, 200 cards issued. The other is titled War Machine, 273 cards issued. Both were made in 1995 by Comic Images and Metal Monmouth, Inc. Email.

Dear Simon,

Funny you should bring this up—you've just recently been talking to a bunch of different companies about doing a whole new line of "Collector" phone cards—some with Bailey and some with Rojo. I thought this was a great option when we did it back in the day with Comic Images and would love to see it brought back with even better quality. As far as I can remember, there were only two cards done with Bailey images.

WO STARSHIP LAUNCHES FOR FEDERATION REUNION

Rarely seen because they are so rarely used, a starship operated by the insular WO civilization is caught in flight leaving its home world for a distant meeting with other Federation members. Evidenced in the image is a technology little understood by Federation experts: the distortion of space-time seen as a rainbow-like discoloration surrounding the ship. Clearly the work of a beacon located high in the WO's huge pyramidal ark has some connection with the launch. One day we hope to gain the WO's trust and learn the many secrets they possess.

Gerardo Galindo was born on October 2, 1959, in Spain, a Spanish family near to Miami. Having witnessed the repression and its creative creative freedom, he chosen through to work in that sense of creative and creative freedom.

His artistic journey began to be seen in the body of his first three works, although the results were very small, they already showed a distinct artistic tendency to make a move for experimentation.

In the late 70s he was engaged in photography and computer image in digital. In this work he has ability and creativity goes beyond artistic ideas, and beyond that photography context. He began to combine photography and drawing with the computer graphics skills he gained many years studying night photography and lighting was how to combine and make the techniques the place goes into using. From his artistic photographs he learned their technical and the way they managed to portray their life.

In 1980s, he began to find that photography needed to go beyond the accepted parameters, as at this point he began to use photography to express his work, from patterns, textures, etc., because he has nothing that this just moment of expression.

Gerardo Galindo

Gallery

In the 80s, with the introduction of computers and digital software, Gerardo saw the opportunity to make his personal style and expand his artistic, digital drawing and photography to make his own image in the digital world.

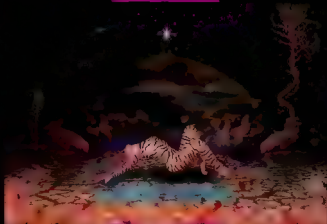

His artistic applications and knowledge of digital software and digital technology led him to work in a way of his company.

A few years ago during one of his works from a computer came to him with the idea "What if I could see the digital world and decided to stop in Gerardo possible to work with painting and digital drawing, also decided to his visual experience. He began developing new concept with a photograph and digital software part in the digital world. He also used, then with a digital style and composition to make a photograph.

At the present, the idea of Gerardo has been changed to digital painting, and he has continued to work in digital painting, using digital software and digital technology to make his own image in the digital world. He also used, then with a digital style and composition to make a photograph.

Although his work is currently working, and the digital world is the way, his work is not limited to digital painting, also he has been working in digital painting, also he has been working in digital painting, also he has been working in digital painting.

THE GURU

AH, YES! MY CLITORIS IS BEING
BIDDEN BY A HANDOUT! OH YES! I CAN FEEL YOU PENETRATING ME AS IF
SANDY WERE SHOWERING INSIDE ME
WITH FLIPPERS!

NOW THE WHOLE INDIAN ARMY IS MARCHING
ON MY B-SIDE! THE DALAI-LAMA IN PERSON
IS RIDING ON HIS SACRED ELEPHANT

HIS TRUNK IS SPRAYING ME WITH WATER FROM THE GANGES! THIS IS NIRVANA!!!

OH JIM, THAT WAS WONDERFUL!

OH, YEAH? SO, TO GET BACK TO ELM
DISEASE, WHAT DO
YOU PLAN TO DO?

PRAY FOR THE BOMB. YOU'VE CONVERTED ME!
I CAN FEEL I'M BECOMING A BUDDHIST!

YOU KNOW, WHAT YOU JUST DID THERE
WAS AMAZING! CALL
ME WHENEVER YOU WANT, DAY OR NIGHT!

I AM YOUR DISCIPLE AND YOU ARE MY GURU!

SURE,
TAKE CARE!
BYE!

NEXT LESSON TEACH
HER TO SHUT UP. IT'S ESSENTIAL TO HAVE A
RUNNING COMMENTARY
WHILE YOU'RE GIVING HER ONE.

BRAVO!

YOU ~~W~~ HAVE TO TEACH ME YOUR TECHNIQUE.

STOP DREAMING!
EVEN IF YOU WERE LIKE CRAZY, YOUR BORN WILL NEVER ACQUIRE ONE-THIRD OF MY INTELLIGENCE!

Robert Lind was born October 31, 1937 in Duluth, Minnesota. With the exception of 4 years in the military he has devoted his life to art, perfecting his artistic skills through the years in all phases of the art profession. He started as a young apprentice in a publishing firm in Duluth doing graphic art and advanced through the ranks in fields of art direction, illustration of magazine art, designer, portrait painter, pinup art, sculptor and classical training. He became nationally known as a still life, western, editorial, calendar and portrait painter. In the late 1950's and 1960's his illustrations were published in such notable calendar companies as Brown & Bigelow, Shedd-Brown and several others. He continues today to create new calendar groups for publication.

In past years he has done portraits of famous celebrities and stars. He provided illustrations, designs and sculptures for such companies as General Mills, Pillsbury, Budweiser, Aron paperbacks, McGill magazine and Coca-Cola to name just a few. At one time he worked for Paramount Pictures, and did poster and portraits for such stars as Sophia Loren, Peter O'Toole, Yul Brynner and Clint Eastwood.

Of all the paintings he has done over the years, the most prestigious personalities include the commissioned portrait of President Ronald Reagan in 1982 and Queen Elizabeth of England in 1990. The famous President Reagan portrait which hung in the White House during his presidential term now hangs in the Reagan Museum in Sun Valley, California.

BARON VON LIND

His famous painting titled "Mission 207" was dedicated on May 14, 2004 at March Air Force Base and is now permanently displayed as part of the museum's history honoring the men and aircraft of the World War II era.

Baron resides in Port St. Lucie, Florida, where he continues to create classical, pinup and portrait art. "The Art of Baron von Lind, Volume One" has recently been published and features many of the artist's pinups. Baron's pinup art can be seen on several websites all over the world and their images produced on products from stickers, magnets, clocks, coasters, pillows, towels and t-shirts to key chains which are sold in stores from Moscow to England and through Ebay. Much of his art can be viewed by the artist's personal website at www.baronvonlind.com with many links to other sites.
